

PEAK2PEAK 2018

August 16, 2018

The night started in a brewhouse...

and ended on a bus...

Two Orange met their doppelgangers...

Peak2Peak is an intensive, week-long series of visits by current students in SU's iSchool (Information Studies) to workplaces in Seattle and Portland. It also involves meeting alumni in informal settings in both cities. Six Stumptown Orange engaged 19 iSchoolers on Aug. 16 at the new Migration Brewing location in Gresham. Over pizza and drinks, the students toured the brewery with co-owner McKean Banzer-Lausberg ('99), above right. Then, they settled into their seats while the alumni played a game of networking musical chairs, moving from table to table, in an attempt to meet every student and strike up conversations. It was intense and fun at the same time.

Thanks to Julie Walas and the iSchool crew for including us in their travels and to McKean for the tour and the meeting place. And hats off to several other alumni, such as Steve Marsh ('97) and Aaron Tersteeg ('95/'96), for leading the students on other worksite visits. Good luck to the students as they head into another school year!
