

PEAK2PEAK 2019

August 15, 2019

The annual summer visit of Peak2Peak students to Portland is rapidly becoming one of the highlights (pun very much intended) of the Stumptown Orange social calendar...

Ten Stumptowners met with about twice as many students from SU's iSchool (Information Studies) who were on a whirlwind, week-long tour of Portland and Seattle high-tech firms and potential employers. Three Syracuse staffers rounded out the group which gathered at Migration Brewing in northeast Portland on Aug. 15.

There's a special vibe that happens when you get alums talking with alums-to-be who are sixty years their junior. Just ask Ted Bunga '61 (below left) and Mamoudou Camara. All in all, it was a fun and very chatty evening for all concerned. Special thanks to Julie Walas and John Liddy who traveled with the students out from Syracuse, Susan Filkins who also represented the University and McKean Banzer-Lausberg '99, (above, right) a co-owner of Migration Brewing, who hosted us and told his story of going from an SU student to a Peace Corps volunteer, to a brewing entrepreneur.

Thanks to everyone who shared their experiences, including alumni, guests, staff and students alike! And a special shout-out to those alumni who helped arrange worksite visits for the students!
